

MEDIA ALERT

Thursday March 26, 2009

CELEBRATING OUR UNIQUE HERITAGE

The 29th annual National Trust Heritage Festival celebrations culminate on Sunday April 19 with National Trust Day on Sydney's Observatory Hill.

Kicking off at 11am, the day promises something for everyone – kids activities, jazz, wine tasting – and for the bargain price of $10 visitors can purchase a joint ticket that will get them into the S.H Ervin Gallery to view this year's Salon des Refuses as well entry to the Sydney Observatory.

National Trust Day also provides the opportunity for people to visit many Trust properties free of charge. Further information on National Trust properties can be found at www.nsw.nationaltrust.org.au/properties

Established in 1945, the National Trust safeguards our natural, built and cultural heritage and encourages Australians to appreciate that each generation has a responsibility to preserve our nation's heritage for the next generation.

Media: Please contact Kathy Scott, Media & Communications Manager on 02 9258 0123 or Kathryn Hibbert, PR Consultant on 0410 509 332.

- ENDS -