KERRY McINNIS discusses her portrait of Euan Macleod

Kerry McInnis lives and paints in the regional landscape outside of Bungendore, NSW. McInnis studied arts in the USA, immigrating to Australia in 1974, where she subsequently obtained her Masters Degree in Art Conservation. Kerry is presently a consulting conservator for the National Library of Australia and the Australian War Memorial. Kerry has had a number of solo exhibitions of her landscape paintings, the most recent work inspired from a trip in to the Flinders Ranges, S.A., where she met fellow artist and portrait subject, Euan Macleod.
